Reno wows the crew from Bump!

Twitter and Facebook were a buzz throughout northern Nevada on Wednesday, February 24 at the fact Bump! (the gay and lesbian travel show), which appears on LOGO, had landed in Reno. A call went out to get people to the two local night spots where the crew planned to be.

People were wondering why a Wednesday night in Reno but that didn't matter as the community turned out and wowed the Canadian crew who landed in Reno on Sunday night.

"I can't believe what an active alive gay and lesbian community is here," Shannon McDonough, the lesbian host of the show, said.

A short video of Shannon singing karaoke at the Patio is posted on Sierravoic.com.

The crew of six had a three day whirlwind tour of the area as they promote the city as a gay travel destination.

Locally the show can be seen on LOGO, the gay and lesbian channel on Dish Network HD, Direct TV and Charter Cable. Times vary and can be found at logoonline.com.

According to the show's producer Rowan Nielsen, after the next three days in Las Vegas, the crew will return to Toronto where they will put together the 26 episodes of season five, one episode featuring the Biggest Little City.

A full story will appear in the April issue of the reno gay page as the event happened too late for inclusion in the March issue.
